William R. Lowe, Police as Richard E. St. Ended-by Detective Ignized Him.

YS HIS BRIDE ANT OF HIS WRONG

Small Fortune in Money and Checks led Him—Look- ing for Cor. derates.

The honeymoon visit of William R. Lowe and his young bride to the World's Fair was rudely interrupted Friday when Lowe, who is also known by the name of Richard E. Gold, was arrested by Detective C. Humble of Columbus, O., just as he was stepping out of a restaurant at Sixteenth street and Franklin avenue. Mrs. Lowe was not with her husband at the time of his arrest, but was at room 402 West End, where they have been staying. They were married in St. Paul, Minn., and came here soon afterwards. They were known as Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Gold.

According to the police, Lowe has confessed that he is a confidence man and that he came to the World's Fair to follow his old profession. Lowe insists, however, that his young wife does not know he makes a living.

Detective Humble, who is one of the best detectives employed by the city, had just finished breakfast, and was about to go to work when he was approached and spoke to him that he had just met the detective before where and invited him to take a trip to the World's Fair. Humble accepted the invitation, but changed the direction of the trip to the Four Courts, where Lowe told him that the World's Fair visit was a joke.

Lowe's clothing was searched by him and found to have secret pockets containing $200 in cash, a check for $100 payable to John J. Randolph and a check for $100 payable to National B. C. Luther. The check was written by the Merchants' National Bank of St. Paul, signed by J. T. Newell, and payable to the Holcomb National Bank of St. Paul. Lowe also had a note, which was a notation, "returned, no He has healthy Uncle.

He, the police say, gave his home as Francisco, but admitted that he traveled about the country working confidence. He said that he is a nephew of C. Lowe of Pasadena, Cal., one of the most famous citizens of Pasadena and president of the Mount Lowe Railway Co. Francisco detectives at the Four Courts identified Lowe as a resident of Francisco and said they were inclined to believe his statement regarding his relatives.

A police also state that Lowe, in St. Paul, married Miss Mae E. Boudin, in St. Paul, July 1st, and that his wife knows only as Richard E. Gold.

A police officer who used, Lowe, was to work with two other police officers in the vicinity of Union Station. A "mark" would be found by the police to engage in a gambling game while the game was in progress. The victim would usually be willing to pay a large sum to avoid arrest.

KING'S DENTIST IS "PULLED" FOR DEBT

Dr. Florestan Aguilar of Madrid, Spanish Court Attache, Served With an Attachment.

WAS AWAKENED BY A DEPUTY

Money Produced From Roll That Made Officer's Eyes Bulge and Doctor Is Allowed to Sleep.

Dr. Florestan Aguilar of Madrid, dentist to the King of Spain, was awakened at the Jefferson Hotel Friday morning at 7 o'clock by Charles Potee, deputy for Constable "Cuddy Mack" of Justice O'Halloran's court.

Dr. Aguilar and his friend, Dr. Subirana, also of Madrid, both delegates to the International Dental Congress, were sleeping in room 97 when Potee arrived at the hotel with an attachment for $185 against the royal tooth-puller. Potee was accompanied by William Murdock, a watchman, whom he designed to place on guard over Dr. Aguilar's belongings in case the foreigner should not immediately strip the simoleons off his roll.

Potee and Murdock said nothing to anybody on reaching the hotel. They secured the number of Aguilar's room from the register and reached it via the elevator. The door was unlocked and the minions of the law entered without compelling either of the room's occupants to arise.

This, however, was after repeated knocks had elicited a faint "Come in" from the Madrid practitioner.

Dr. Aguilar rubbed his eyes and rested on one elbow in bed as Potee and Murdock entered.

He scanned them as closely as possible, but couldn't identify them as any of the gentlemen he had met at the sessions of the dental congress.

"May I inquire to what I am indebted for the honor of this early morning visit?" asked Dr. Aguilar of the invaders.

"I am an officer of the law," replied Potee with appropriate emphasis, "and I have an attachment for $185 for you sworn out by the Guinness-Sibley Dental Co. of Philadelphia."

Well, exclaimed the astonished Spaniard, shaking Subirana in the other bed and sitting upright, "you are certainly endeavoring to wake a man up to collect a bill. Did you think I would run away if you waited until later in the day?"

"That's the system," Potee explained. "Get 'em before they get up and they can't get away. If they try to it, put a watchman on guard. I brought the watchman with me, concluded 'Cuddy Mack's' strenuous representative introduced Murdock.

Just about that time Dr. Aguilar began, wishing he was back amid the royal precincts where his word is law to attendance, and where interference with his desires amounts to a crime. But he realized that he is a long way from Madrid.

"It is true," he finally said to Potee, "that I owe a bill to that company, which is about the figure you mention. But they are also indebted to me for advertising, and it is for that reason that I have not paid. But you may call later in the day and I will settle with you."

"Not in Missouri," replied Potee to this direction. "Here we constables get our money or we wait for it. No calling later for me."

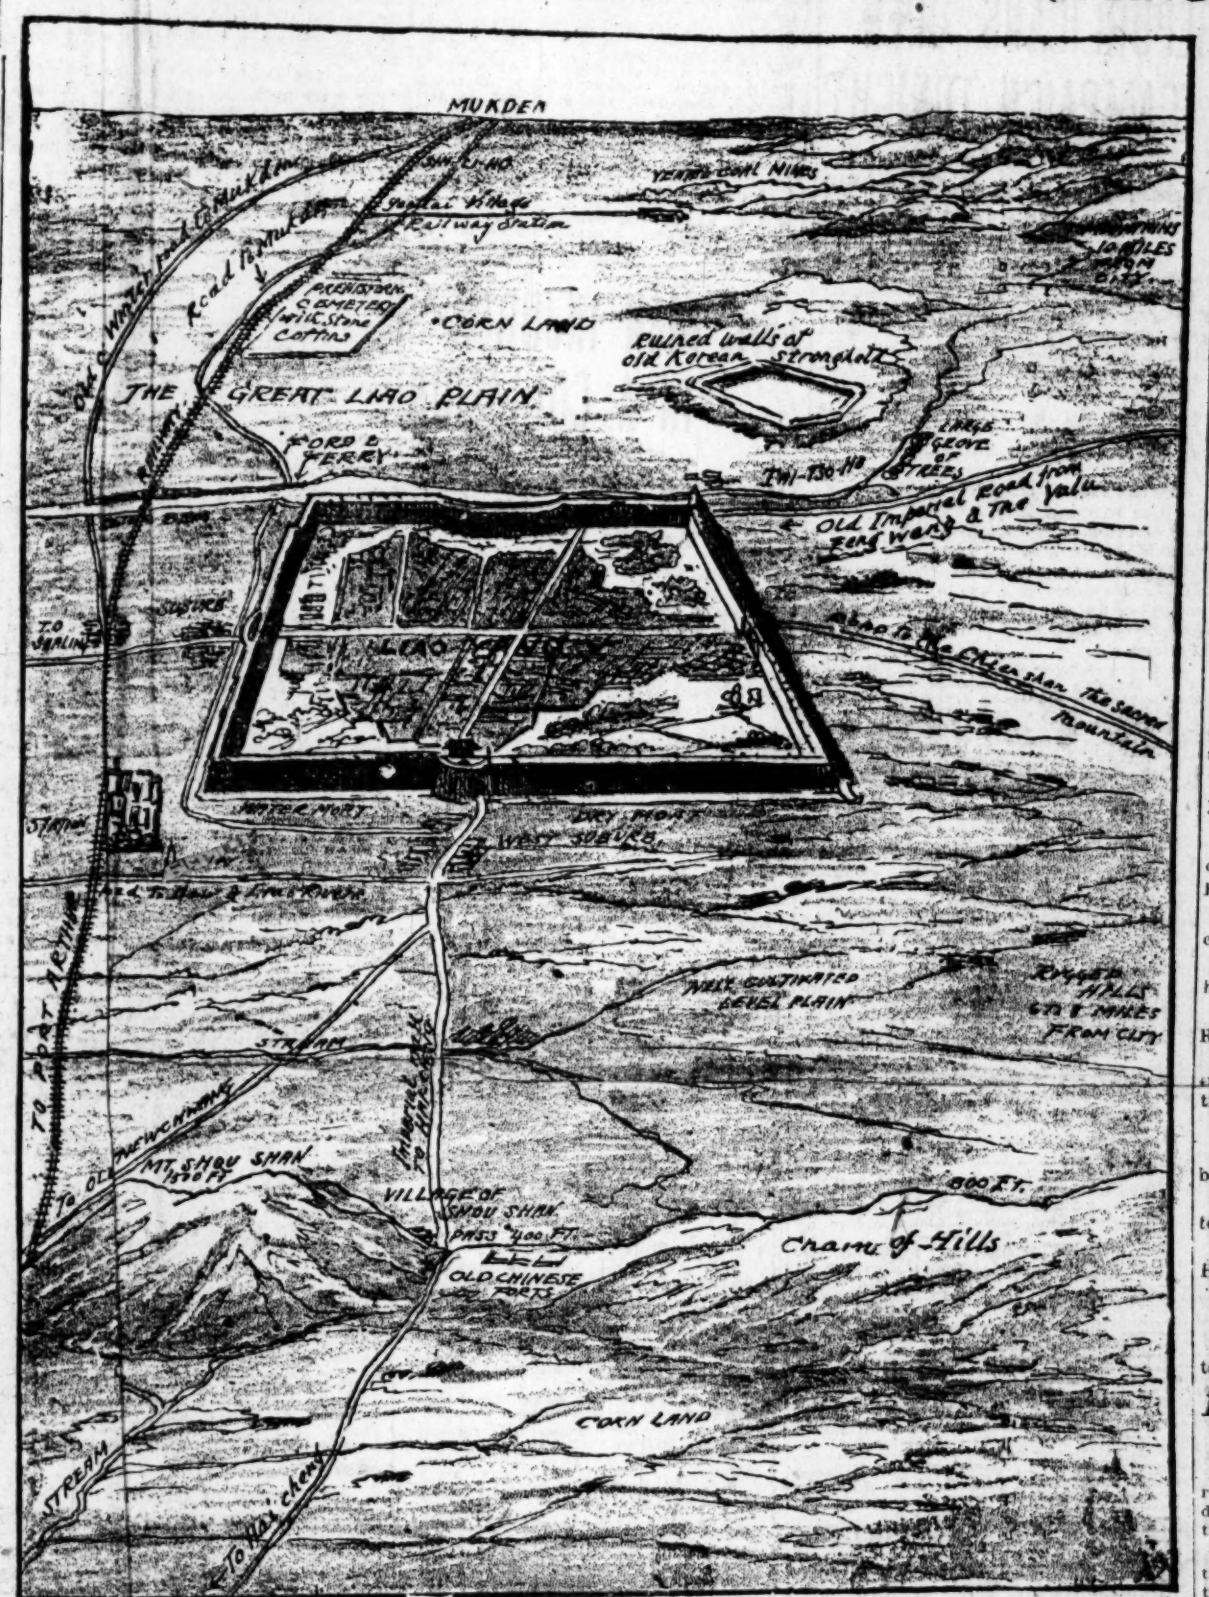

Potee notified Murdock to levy upon all the shirts, collars, coats, trousers and other apparel he could find about the room, unless the doctor paid at once.

Dr. Subirana awoke at this juncture and told his friend he was "up against it."

Then Dr. Aguilar decided to dispense with his beauty sleep. He dressed hastily and drew a huge roll of yellowbacks from his pocket. They were all $50 bills.

The dentist took Potee to the clerk's desk and secured a change of the clerk's name to keep $10 for his trouble. Then he paid Potee and went back to bed.

BIRDSEYE VIEW OF COUNTRY AROUND LIAOYANG WHERE BATTLE IS RAGING

The latest dispatch from the front indicate Kuropatkin has set fire to Liao Yang, including his food supply stations and retired beyond the river. This morning Gen. Kuroki, whose army crossed the river on the two preceding days, attacked the Russians from the northeast in an effort to cut their railway communication. Gens. Oku and Nodzu are still on the Liao Yang side of the river, and, presumably, in possession of Liao Yang. They are preparing to resume the pressure in the south of the Russian line, thus completing the envelopment of Kuropatkin, provided Kuroki's plans succeed.

Kuropatkin's Army Shelled by Its Own Cannon Captured by Mikado's Troops and Thrown Into Great Confusion While Crossing River.

ST. PETERSBURG NOT SURE JAPS HAVE SEIZED CITY

Liaoyang Reported Fired by the Retreating Russians Who Are Shelled by Their Own Cannon and Demoralized as They Crossed the River.

TOKIO, Sept. 2 (7 p. m.).—The fighting at Liaoyang was continued until a late hour last night. It was resumed at dawn today.

The fate of the great bulk of the retreating Russian army hinges upon the bravery and fortitude of its left flank. If it fails before Kuroki's assault, then nothing can prevent the Japanese from bottling Kuropatkin between two armies.

A telegram received here from the chief of staff in the field indicates that Gen. Oku, in command of the Japanese left army, gained the ascendancy over the Russian right and center by a night assault.

The Japanese gained a foothold near Hsinlinton, Wednesday afternoon, and the telegram says that they occupied Hsinlinton and the eminences to the west of Shou-shan-pao at 3 o'clock Thursday morning, after having delivered a successful night attack which surprised the Russians.

The artillery captured by the Japanese, which they are using against Liaoyang, are described as 10-centimeter guns. The number taken is not given.

TOKIO, Sept. 2.—3 p. m.—The Japanese right army, under Gen. Kuroki, which crossed the river Wednesday and Thursday, today began a general assault on the Russian troops who crossed the river last night.

The purpose is to throw this army in between Kuropatkin and Mukden and cut him off from the north.

Then the Japanese will have him between two big armies, and it is believed he will never be able to extricate himself.

It is reported here that a conflagration is raging in Liaoyang, indicating the Russians set fire to it before abandoning it.

The chief of staff of the center Japanese army, Gen. Nodzu's, telegram, in connection with the Japanese left, commanded by Gen. Oku.

The Russians began to retreat on the right center from Liaoyang early Thursday. They were thrown into great confusion while attempting to cross the river.

The Japanese, pursuing them vigorously, seized a Russian cannon which they used to shell the Liaoyang railway station.

Field Marshal Oyama's right attacked a heavy force of Russians in the vicinity of Hsinyingtai, 12 miles northeast of Liaoyang, at 11 o'clock Thursday.

His left began at dawn today pressing the Russians towards Tatsho.

It is thought that he will severely punish the Russians.

The Japanese casualties in the Liaoyang engagement have not yet been ascertained officially. It is announced that they will not exceed 10,000.

KUROPATKIN REPORTED TO CZAR HE HAD OCCUPIED "MAIN POSITION"

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 2.—4:30 p. m.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon, received a dispatch from Peterhof, sent to the Emperor last night by the dated 5 p. m., yesterday. It was transmitted to the war office for the information is extremely meagre.

As communicated to the press, the dispatch states that an artillery unit till the hour of sending it, and that the Russians were retiring upon the north bank of the river, the dispatch becomes intelligible. The dispatch, during the day makes it evident that a screen of Russian guns was used to the movement across the river. The guns on the north bank doubtless were employed for this purpose, being placed so as to protect the railroad bridge across the Taitse.

The dispatch as given out, therefore, does not admit that Gen. Kuropatkin withdrawing across the Taitse river entirely. It is possible that, on the sure of the Japanese, the Russian army, as stated in the Tokyo dispatch, thrown into confusion and greatly hampered.

In the light of the knowledge that the Russian position of the left, and the north bank of the river, the dispatch becomes intelligible. The dispatch, during the day makes it evident that a screen of Russian guns was used to the movement across the river. The guns on the north bank doubtless were employed for this purpose, being placed so as to protect the railroad bridge across the Taitse.

The review of the Third Siberian corps, mentioned in the dispatch, probably to a march past the troops while crossing the river, it being impossible to pose that a formal review occurred while the battle was in progress.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon the war office said it was entirely without today's fighting, but added that the railroad between Liaoyang and Mukden, open. No press dispatches from the front had arrived up to the same hour. The range in St. Petersburg is intense, and the town is filled with all kinds of rumors ranging from a complete victory for Gen. Kuropatkin to a destructive defeat of the Russians.

WAR OFFICE INSISTS KUROPATKIN'S NEW POSITION IS HIS STRONGER

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 2.—1:35 p. m.—No absolute information has reached the war office confirming the reports that Liaoyang has been occupied by the Japanese, but it is positively known that Gen. Kuropatkin decided to withdraw from his position south of Liaoyang to the north or right bank of the Taitse river, Tuesday night and the orders were actually given.

The war office presumes that the movement was tried out since the latest advances were made, that the crossing of the river was opposed.

The first time Gen. Kuropatkin's position was reported, it was said that he had moved to the right bank of the river, and that he was in a strong position. The war office, however, insists that his new position is his stronger.

Gains Advantage by Sp

By this piece of strategy, Kuropatkin, the opinion of the general staff, gains immense advantage. If the army is trapped on one side of the river, it is in a position to attack the Japanese from the rear. Kuropatkin's position is his stronger.

The war office, however, insists that his new position is his stronger.

"GET-RICH-QUICK" MAN FORFEITS BAIL

Fales Charged With Swindling Farmers in Grain Speculations, Fails to Appear for Trial.

Charles Colgate Fales, who, it is alleged, recently conducted a "get-rich-quick" concern in St. Louis, failed to appear for a hearing before a United States commissioner at Kansas City Thursday and his bond of $500 was declared forfeited.

Postoffice Inspector W. B. Platt, who arrested Fales, reported this development to Chief Postoffice Inspector Dice at the Federal building Friday morning.

According to Platt, Fales and an associate conducted a concern in St. Louis in May and June under the name of John H. Hissling & Co. in the Railway Exchange building.

They sought customers from the country. It is alleged, sending out circulars announcing that they had inside information on grain and that they would make customers $200 on every $20 invested.

John H. Hissling of St. Louis was one of the men who complained of the concern to the postoffice authorities. He declared they were using his name without his permission.

Fales had departed from St. Louis when Platt set sail for him. He left about Aug. 12. Platt traced him to Chicago, and thence to Kansas City, arresting him at the latter place Aug. 19. He gave bond for $500 to Chicago.

Platt subsequently went to Chicago in search of evidence against Fales' partner. There he met Fales, told him that he would be in Kansas City for trial on the date set.

Fales wouldn't have to be if I didn't, Platt says. Fales told him that he was in Kansas City for trial on the date set.

JEFFERSON GUARDS IN REAL CRUSADE

Siege of Jerusalem Follows Refusal of Sub-Concessionaire to Pay His Percentage.

Souvenir spoons caused another siege of Jerusalem at the World's Fair Friday. The holy city was invested by a force of Jefferson Guards and for a while the going out and coming in of people was stopped.

Franchise holder Victor Guest of 935 Page boulevard is an Oriental merchant and a British subject, who has a shop in Jerusalem. He has been offering souvenir spoons for sale.

One man has a concession for selling all the souvenir spoons. E. M. Leazer, inspector of concessions, discovered that the spoons were being sold by Guest and his son and attempted to confiscate the spoons. Guest, father and son, protested, the young man resisted Mr. Leazer forcibly and there was a scrimmage, in which Leazer was scratched.

Mr. Leazer called T. A. Philpot, a guard, to arrest the men, but they disappeared in the maze of the Jerusalem streets, and could not be found.

Philpot summoned reinforcements, and a siege was begun. Guards were stationed at every entrance and exit and a campaign was begun which was not to end until the two men were arrested, if it took all summer.

The elder Guest was found presently and arrested and taken to the police station. Notwithstanding that the walls are high and all the gates were guarded, the son escaped from the city and left the grounds.

Guest, Sr., sent for the British consul in the hope of getting bond.

AIR TONIGHT AND COOLER

Belmy Westerly Breezes Will Make Living in St. Louis Delightful, Says Weather Man.

A cessation of the rain, which began early this morning, was followed by the announcement from the weather bureau that the prospect was that the rain would entirely disappear and clear weather would prevail tonight and Saturday.

The forecast: Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight; fresh westerly winds.

Rain has prevailed generally during the past twenty-four hours from the lake west to the coast.

Part of Kuraki's Force Engaged

In view of the Tokyo dispatch received this morning it is possible that the troops forming the Japanese flank did not succeed in crossing the river. There are two good regular bridges at Lianyung, over which the Russian crossing was effected, and then there is the railroad bridge, about two miles down the stream.

The Tokyo report that Kuraki's forces were in action at Hsienyang, north of the Taitse river, indicates that Gen. Karapatin has already engaged him with a portion of his army.

It is understood that throughout the fighting of the last few days Kurapatin's main reserves did not leave their position on the right bank of the river.

The report that telegraphic communication between Lianyung and Mukden has been severed is not admitted as the war office which points out that it has only been receiving two telegrams daily from Generals Kurapatin and Sukharoff. Two were received yesterday and two are expected today, although none had been delivered up to noon.

The absence of press telegrams is explained, as announced in these dispatches yesterday, by the transfer of the head telegraph office at Lianyung to Shakkie, 11 miles north, which was necessitated by the shells that were dropping into the office, although the office was situated on the north bank of the Taitse river. A shell killed two operators Monday.

The field telegraph, which is working between Shakkie and Kurapatin's headquarters is not available to correspondents, who would have to send their messages by express rider to Shakkie, a difficult task owing to the heavy roads.

The public here is still in complete ignorance of the new phase which the battle entered upon yesterday, but interest is at white heat. Every foreign telegram is eagerly pounced upon and the newspapers are printing extra editions four or five times a day, a thing heretofore unprecedented in the history of the Russian capital.

WOULDN'T RIDE MILE FOR $10

Editor Tore Up World's Fair Passes Rather Than Go That Far to Have Them Validated.

C. J. Lumpkin of Carlinville, Ill., thinks it is worth more than $10 to walk or even ride a mile to the World's Fair. At least he refused to make the walk to secure admission passes worth that amount.

Mr. Lumpkin's credentials show him to be editor of the Carlinville Enterprise, Thursday night he called at the Press building after the office at which press passes are validated there was closed. He had two 10-trip passes to the Exposition which he wanted to have countersigned. At 50 cents an admission they were worth $5.

"The validating office in the Administration building is open until 9:30 at night, and your passes will be attended to there," he was informed by a Jefferson guard.

"No, they're not worth the walk up there," replied Mr. Lumpkin, as he leisurely tore the string of passes into shreds and threw them away. The Administration building is one mile from the Press building, and the Intramural railroad connects them.

A short time after her father rented a house on Main street that had been built by the Spanish governor of the Louisiana territory.

Charged With Violating Injunction and Called to Court by the Wholesale.

The residence of Richard Gehler, a foreman at one of the packing houses at the National Stock Yards, East St. Louis, was stoned Thursday night.

Mr. Gehler lives at Fifteenth and Monroe streets, in Lansdowne, a suburb of East St. Louis. Persons concealed in the weeds bombarded the house with stones and missiles, breaking the windows and doing other damage.

Mr. Gehler went to the door two shots were fired. He obtained his shotgun and fired in the direction from which the shots had appeared to come.

As the house was outside the city limits deputy sheriffs were sent out, but when they arrived at Lansdowne the persons who had thrown the rocks had disappeared and no trace of them could be found.

W. G. Sullivan, superintendent of the hog department at Swift's, was menaced by several men at Collinsville and St. Clair avenues. One of them struck him. He drew a revolver and the men got behind a telephone pole. Police escorted Sullivan, who is commissioned as a deputy sheriff, to his home.

All but about fifty of the employees of the packing houses were kept at the plants Thursday night to avert a repetition of the trouble of the night before. They slept in cots under tents.

About 4 o'clock people began to gather on St. Clair avenue and at 5:30 there were upward of 5000 men on the street. The entire police force was there the night before, having reported at 5 o'clock instead of 7 o'clock. The uniformed force was further augmented by putting a number of detectives in police uniforms.

When the "bull train" of the Terminal, on which employees are returned to St. Louis from the packing house, drew up between the Swift and Neilsen Morris plants, about 50 employees made a rush for it to get on. Seventy-five or a hundred men rose up out of the weeds and tried to intercept them. Deputy Sheriff Charles Caswell leaped from the train at the head of a column of men and fired a shot into the air and the men who had risen out of the weeds disappeared.

The entire police force was at hand Friday morning again to prevent trouble, the day force having come on duty at 5 o'clock. There were about 2000 deputies on duty Thursday evening and Friday morning.

Strikers Charged With Contempt.

As a result of strike troubles at the East St. Louis packing house during the past two or three days, issuance of citations on a wholesale plan is begun at Belleville.

Deputy sheriffs were busy Friday evening serving citations issued by Judge Holder at Belleville Thursday night. They order the persons against whom they are issued to appear forthwith at the Belleville circuit court to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court in violating as it is alleged, the injunction issued by Judge Holder some time ago restraining strikers from interfering in any way with an employed to take their places at the packing plants in East St. Louis.

Citations were served Friday morning on Patrick Moran, business agent of the Packing Trades Council; Chris Letz, another strike leader, and Frank Meyer and George Halforth of the commissary department. Other citations will be served as fast as the persons named in them be found.

Sheriff G. W. Thompson of St. Clair avenue denies a statement by Dr. H. H. Henshaw, a statement by Gov. Yaw in reference to the advisability of calling off the militia. He said Friday that he had no conference with the governor since the strike began. "I do not want to mix up the militia," he said, "and I think order can be maintained without that being done."

Butcher's Home

Bombarded at Night.

Citations were served Friday forenoon on Edward Stapleton, Thomas Boston, Tony Kerinoza and William Ryals and they were taken to Belleville. It is understood in East St. Louis the bond will not be accepted for them.

The home of a man named Johnson, a butcher at Armour's who went on strike Thursday night. He live at Ninth and Exchange avenues. It was also stoned the night before. Windows were broken. Johnson tried snots. He asked for a policeman to protect his house Thursday night, but was told that one could not be spared.

J. W. Sullivan, who was attacked at Collinsville and St. Clair avenues, has made affidavit that his assailant was John Kehoe and that the policeman who arrived during the trouble made no attempt to arrest him.

Lucien Coy, William Grithy and A. N. Hughes filed suit in the East St. Louis city court Friday against Policeman Thomas Morissey for $50,000 damages for false imprisonment. They allege that they asked Morissey the way to the packing houses, intending to seek employment, and he cursed them and arrested them and they were locked up for seven hours.

The receipt of national and international stockpiles Friday were 2200. At Chicago and Kansas City they were 2000.

A RISING PHYSICIAN

Gives An Interesting Interview. SAYS C-N IS INDISPENSABLE TO A HEALTHY HOUSEHOLD.

One of the most prominent of the younger physicians in St. Louis is quoted as saying recently: "This is of all seasons of the year, perhaps the most favorable for the development of many types of disease germs. There is not a home in St. Louis that has not nooks and corners where they are likely to breed unless prevented and destroyed."

"Getting rid of them is not so very difficult if you go at it intelligently. The best thing I have ever come across for this purpose is C-N. It's nonpoisonous, noncorrosive, and acts instantly on germs, insects and bed bugs."

"I recommend it in every house I visit. You mix it with water and spray it or sprinkle it in the corners, on the carpets, and everywhere the germs can breed. It kills the germ and drains pipes with it."

FROM DEER SHE GOES A BRIDE

Pretty Agnes Vowells, Who Sought Her Life Because of Lovers' Quarrel, Now a Happy Wife.

While Agnes Vowells was in the City Hospital last Tuesday suffering from the effects of lacerations which she had taken in an effort to end her life she declared that she would rather die than live with out her sweetheart, George Phillips, and that if he did not marry her she would make another attempt at self-destruction.

There is no danger for the present of Miss Vowells taking any more poison. She became the wife of George Phillips Thursday and they are now spending a happy honeymoon at the home of the bridegroom's parents, 944 Chouteau avenue.

Monday afternoon of this week Miss Vowells quarreled with her sweetheart about religion. He broke their engagement and she returned his ring. Then she donned her best clothes and started to leave the house. As she was going out Mr. Phillips, Sr., asked her where she was going.

DRAWBACKS OF BEING PRETTY

By Nicola Greeley-Smith, Granddaughter of Horace Greeley.

for the Post-Dispatch.

It is not expected that the fortunate woman with such heels and at-iph pomps will care to be a little homely. The disadvantage of being pretty, of course, is that there are not for the wed young who even by old devices at the covdescriptive of feminine may be consolation in the to be considered pretty is delight. place, she has to meet the masculine conviction that has no sense. Other wom- their principles may be anted, but she has to prove often she finds it a difficult. For under her most brilliant of wit and epigram the average serves the air of mystified but un-credulity with which he watches t-of-hand performance which he plain, but nevertheless won't beer disadvantage of being a pretty is that from the very hour of her that respectable but scarcely beauti- old lady. Mrs. Grundy, has marked her her very own. Other women less gifted th physical levelled may dance six times in an evening with the same man or stroll on a moonlit beach unchaperoned, and the enterprising old gossip will have not a word to say concerning them. But let a girl with a primrose-skin and a dis- pled mouth, with corners that look as if they had been done up in curl papers over- night, commit any of these social impru- dences and—"Well, really, you know, some- body ought to speak to that young chit about her conduct. How easy it is to see that she has no mother."

The inevitable penalty of being conspic- uous in looks is that of having to be incon- spicuous in everything else. If you are not, people are going to ask the reasons why and to supply reasons if you don't give them any. A woman's very beauty gives people the right to stare at her, at least they think it does, and though she may enjoy the attention she attracts for a while, in the end she gets awfully tired of

Harry Connor Talks of Hoyt

HARRY CONNOR.

One of the few actors identified with the farces of the late Charles H. Hoyt, who has kept his name successfully before the public since the death of that play- wright is Harry Connor, a member of the company presenting "Vivian's Papas" at the Century.

Mr. Connor has had ample experience in impersonating fussy and excitable middle- aged business men in various capacities. His Wellandstrong was the life and soul of "A Trip to Chinatown," and who can forget the enthusiasm with which mixed in supper parties and dancing specialties in Hoyt's "A Day and a Night," and "A Stranger in New York."

In private life Mr. Connor is the opposite of the rollicking man about town he im- personates. He is a member of the Cath- olic Club of New York, and during his extended engagements in that city lives in its handsome building.

Mr. Connor was a friend of twenty years standing of Mr. Hoyt, and inherited from that satirical genius a collection of scarf pins and two diamond and grub rings. Chatting yesterday about the dead dramat- ist, the actor said:

"Charles H. Hoyt was a curious combina- tion of a countryman and a cosmopolitan. Born in a little village in New Hampshire as a young man, he went to Boston, where he wrote clever paragraphs for the Boston Post that soon attracted widespread atten- tion. It was while hanging about the thea- ters of that city that he met the late Charles Thomas, his first theatrical part- ner, who was also a Boston press man. Hoyt had a stinging pen, and Thomas an acute business mind. Combination brought them a fortune. Although in late years Hoyt revelled in luxury and traveled all over the world, there lingered about him a flavor of the New Hampshire boy who could not be disguised by wearing a silk hat, an opera coat and patent leather shoes."

"I was a frequent visitor at Hoyt's sum- mer home in New Hamp- and it was there he considerably nix my play- writing in the bud. Hoyt had little thea- ter connected with his place, and when I modestly informed him that I had written a comedy he arranged to have it presented with several of his theatrical guests as his exponents. At the conclusion of the last act Hoyt handed me a document which turned out to be a contract guaranteeing me a salary for life as a player under his management. 'This,' he said, 'will keep you from ever again reaching the neces- sity of playwrighting—at least as long as I live—and that last is all that is worrying me in this connection.' I took the hint and folded up my dramatic aspirations for evermore in the camphor chest."

"Hoyt was forever saying and doing humorous things in a dry, sardonic fashion. Many of us remember the story that when a certain very bad actor, hearing a prom- inent part in one of Hoyt's companies sud- denly required a new interpreter wired, 'I am of the opinion that I could play the role.' Hoyt telegraphed back, 'You are alone in your opinion.' I was visiting him one day when a man called, hoping to secure a position as butler. Unfortunately the man was unsteady, thanks to drink- ing. Examining his references and looking him squarely in the eye, Mr. Hoyt dismissed him, saying: 'This reference is dated yesterday.'"

"Like nearly everybody else associated with the theater, Hoyt was strangely su- perstitious. Just because the first success- ful play he wrote had a title which be- gan with 'A' he made it a point to have the designations of all his subsequent out- puts begin with that same letter. Fur- thermore, he always wore a dress suit while at work, and in some vague way of his in the case of his being sized up for "points" as if she were on exhibition at a cattle show.

A pretty woman has always to be as much on the alert concerning her dress and looks as the sentry guarding a danger- ous outpost in war time. If she isn't the rumor is immediately circulated that she is "going off on her looks" or "getting terri- bly seedy," etc.

It is not even certain that to be pretty is an unmixed aid to matrimony, for there are some men who are afraid to marry pretty women and only feel at home with plain ones. They are the kind that never get over feeling a certain awe of and dis- comfort in their dress suits and regard comfort and ugliness as synonymous terms.

There is really just one combination of circumstances in which the possession of beauty is an unmixed advantage. That is in facing a jury when on trial for murder. It has been said that a pretty woman can commit any crime and go unpunished in New York. It is certain that 12 men can- not be found to sentence a pretty woman to death, possibly less from sympathy with the individual than from a proper ap- preciation of the scarcity of pretty women and unwillingness to diminish the num- ber.

But few women will envy her this unique supremacy and still fewer put their love- liness to such a test.

THE WORLD OF ST. LOUIS

Flanagan of N. Y. A. C., Holder of Olympic Honors Until Yesterday

DELH. WEL

BAS D'OR KING OF ST. LOUIS TRACKS

Races of Last Saturday and Yesterday Demonstrate Handsome Chestnut Is Local Champion

Bas d'Or is now the undisputed champion thoroughbred of the St. Louis racetracks. Last Saturday he picked up 117 pounds and stepped nine furlongs in 1:34, winning decisively from a high-class field, and yesterday he shouldered 112 pounds and breezed over some of the fastest horses at the track in a six-furlong sprint in 1:14 flat. Henry Avis, who trains Bas d'Or for William Mulkey of Kansas City, has received several flattering offers for the handsome chestnut son of Duhaute-Jordan Sapper, but declines to entertain them or even put a price on the horse.

"I don't think the horse is for sale," said Mose Goldblatt, after Bas d'Or won the fourth race yesterday. "I'd readily give $10,000 for him. I think he can win anywhere, wish he was in my barn."

The question of whether Bas d'Or is the best horse seen here this season is a difficult one to decide. Hermis and Colonial Girl both started but once. Leaving them out of the calculation the next question is how does Bas d'Or stack up with Six Shooter and First Mason?

Both these horses have been shipped away and Bas d'Or will hardly be afforded an opportunity to measure strides with either long as he remains here.

Six Shooter ran a phenomenal six furlongs the last time he started here and, although beaten, it was the consensus of opinion at the time that there was not a horse in the track good enough to beat him at a mile. This was before Bas d'Or rounded to his best form. Now it is an open question in the minds of the who have seen both horses race which is the best.

A match race between the pair would certainly create a wonderful amount of interest. First Mason is now being campaigned in the East, otherwise the management might have a chance to arrange a three-cornered race between Bas d'Or and the two other horses and bring the trio together for the championship of the western circuit.

HOT OFF THE BAT

The Cardinals will open a series of three games with the Chicago Nationals in Chicago this afternoon. The team departed last night, leaving behind them a record of 1-0. The Cubs will accompany the local team to St. Louis Sunday night and two games will be played here Monday, one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

Dunkley has played two clever games in right field for the Cardinals. In Thursday's game he drove out a double, a single and handled two chances. Yesterday he scored McLean with another two-bagger and himself brought in a run in the eighth, getting to base on a fielder's choice and tallying on Shannon's single.

New York is again crowding the Boston for the League leadership, their win from Detroit yesterday putting them 1 to 0, and the Browns retreating the Athletics 2 to 0. Less than 50 points now separate the first division teams of the American League.

Frank Glade played again yesterday that he is one of the finds of the season among the pitchers. He shut out the hard-hitting Athletics with a perfect game, six hits, and struck out six men. He also had the great Wendell as his opponent.

The Boston Americans are being secured Dan Kervin, the crack right-fielder of the Louisville club. He will join the White Sox at the close of the minor league season.

ALLEGED FORGER MISSING.

When Case of Mrs. Mary Langdon Is Called She Fails to Appear.

When the case of Mrs. Mary Langdon, charged with passing a check for $500, on which was forged the name of Herbert W. McCall, administrator for the estate of the late Hattie McCall Travis, was called in the court of criminal justice yesterday, Mrs. Langdon failed to appear. Detectives in the police department have been unable to locate her. She is believed to have fled to her home in the city of St. Louis, where she is believed to be hiding out.

Mrs. Langdon was formerly connected with a Pike attraction at the World's Fair. She was charged with passing a check on the time of her arrest. She is believed to have fled to her home in the city of St. Louis, where she is believed to be hiding out.

Miss Myrtle C. Crozier's address in St. Louis is desired by C. B. Brown, superintendent of the San Joaquin County exhibit in the California section of the Agriculture building.

Mr. Brown received a letter Thursday from Miss Crozier in which she said she would like to be married Wednesday in the San Joaquin exhibit, as she was born in that county.

She said her fiancé was on the way to St. Louis and that she was anxious to see him. She said the arrangement would satisfy him.

Mr. Brown says he will be delighted to have two ceremonies performed at his booth, but that he cannot perform at the same time. He will read this notice in the Post-Dispatch and confer with him at once about the arrangements.

PREDICTS 1:38 CLIP FOR FIRST MASON

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Charles Ellison believes that First Mason will be a good horse hereabouts this fall, and says that it is hard luck that he has not a bunch of stakes for $200.

"He is really a horse capable of running one mile in 1:38 on one of these tracks," Ellison says. "The St. Louis tracks are deep and holding. They are not as well taken care of as are the tracks in the East. You will find that this First Mason is better than a mere miler. On his first race here speed would seem to be his forte, but he can really carry it any distance. He will go one mile and a half, I have watched him run a lot and would not be at all surprised to see him develop into another McCloskey."

Eastern turf folk hope Ellison may have overestimated First Mason. Really able recruits to the ranks of the mature division are sorely needed. With Waterbury, Hermis, Irish Lad and one or two of the other early season stand-bys out of commission, there are few good horses to run for many good races.

FARMER SHOT; ASSAILANTS FLEE IN HIS WAGON

Three Men Commanded Truck Gardener to Get Down From His Vehicle and Wounded Him While He Was Complying, Driving Hurriedly Off.

IS ONE THE MAN WHO
ATTACKED MRS. CROSSER?

Police Believe Woman's Assailant
Sought Wagon to Effect Escape—
Max R. Orthwein Found Wounded Man on Roadside Unconscious.

The condition of William Yokel, a farmer at Bellefontaine, St. Louis County, who is at St. Luke's Hospital suffering from a bullet wound inflicted by desperadoes, was little changed this morning, and he is thought to be in a critical condition, the bullet having entered his body just above one hip and ranging upward, into the abdominal cavity.

Yokel was driving into St. Louis with a wagon loaded with peaches Thursday night, and upon reaching Roth's Grove, ten miles west of the city limits, on the Olive street road, about 9 o'clock, three men appeared suddenly from the tall weeds at the side of the road and commanded Yokel to stop. He disobeyed. He was then commanded to get out of the wagon, and it was while in the act of complying with this demand that he was shot.

In leaving the wagon, Yokel turned his back to the highwaymen and just as he was climbing down off the wheel, one shot was fired, the revolver being pointed up in such a position that the bullet took a very dangerous direction after entering Yokel's body.

When Yokel fell to the ground, the three highwaymen mounted the wagon and, urging the horses at full speed, drove toward the city. Max R. Orthwein of 2015 Park avenue, president of the Sempire Clock Co., who was driving in the vicinity of Roth's Grove, heard the shot and saw the wagon being driven away. Upon investigating and finding Yokel had been shot, Mr. Orthwein telephoned the Mounted police district, but the robbers left the wagon before reaching the city, escaping from a deputy sheriff of St. Louis County.

Men Slipped
by Deputies.

The deputy sheriff was walking along the road, and noticing the speed at which the wagon was moving, and suspecting something wrong, stopped the team. The robbers hastily abandoned the wagon and ran into the woods. They were not followed by the sheriff's officer.

William Heaps, who was also hauling produce to the St. Louis market, came upon the scene a moment after the shooting.
He notified Gottlieb Roth at Roth's Grove.
Yokel was sent to the city and taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

The motive of the highwaymen is a mystery to the police. The thought that the robbery was attempted for the purpose of getting possession of the load of peaches is not receiving serious consideration. The police doubt that the first intention of the men was robbery, although considering it from any other standpoint, the theft of the wagon and peaches is an unexplainable exception to the use of the wagon as a possible assistance in escaping.

The belief that there was a motive directly responsible for the shooting of Yokel will be thoroughly investigated by the officers. It is possible that some time today Yokel will be in condition to tell of the shooting and any previous clues as to those guilty. It is known of any reason why others should want to kill him.

The police think it possible one of the men may be the negro who attacked Mrs.
Mary Crosser near the World's Fair grounds Thursday night and left her lying in the weeds. The scene of the latter crime is not far from the place where Yo-kel was commanded to get off his wagon.

Farmers Fight Over a Farm.

William White, a farmer, living near Hermann, Gasconade County, is at the city Hospital suffering from a fractured skull which he says he received during a fight over the sale of a farm with Mike Neumann, another farmer living near Hermann. White says Neumann struck him over the head with a bottle. White is held a prisoner pending an investigation of the case. He was brought to St. Louis Thursday.

DANGER IN MILK.

Ordinary cow's milk is especially dangerous in the hot summer months.
Disease germs flourish in it. Tuberculosis bacilli and germs that breed intestinal diseases are prevalent in milk. The health of babies and children whose sustenance depends on milk is thus gravely endangered.

Is the best solution of the milk problem. It is prepared from the choicest dairies in the famous Fox River Valley and the Oxford County district. The highest scientific and sanitary methods are used in the preparation, the milk being reduced to rich cream by evaporation, and perfectly sterilized. Testimonies to its purity have been given by such authorities as Prof. Haines of Rush Medical College, Dr. Howe of the Chicago Foundlings Home, and scores of other noted physicians.
